REORGANIZATION NATIONAL GUARD BEING CONSIDERED

Washington, Sept. 5.—Reorganization of the national guard on a more economical basis for its peacetime development is being given serious consideration by members of the house sub-committee on military appropriations and by war department officials. Suggestions already have been made that the maximum strength allowed by law be decreased from 800 men per senator and representative to 450 or 500, making reduction in the organization's authorized peace strength of about 135,000 men.

At a letter to Representative Anthony J. Canine, chairman of the house sub-committee on military appropriations, which was made public today, Secretary Weeks pointed out two methods by which a new adjustment of the national guard might be accomplished. The first would be to limit the strength and development by limiting appropriations and the second would prescribe "a more reasonable requirement as to the prescribed peace strength."

Secretary Weeks said that the "first option is the fairest and bet; moreover, it is due to both the national guard and to the war department to know where they stand. In view of the fact that he present peace strength was fixed solely by Congress, and being fearful of being misunderstood by the national guard he hesitate to make any definite recommendations."

TRAIN SEARCH MADE FOR MISSING SISTERS

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 6.—Police and sheriff's deputies combed the city today in search of Mrs. J. Jarnett Starr, 19, and her sister, Miss Virginia Lamar, 15, as a result of the arrest here last night of C. C. Graham, 30, Detroit insurance adjuster, charged in a warrant obtained at Macon by Warren Robertson, uncle of the girls, with having kidnapped them.

Despite Graham's denial that he had seen the young women since August 29 when he was in the company of Mrs. Starr at Macon, the sheriff's office expressed the belief the girls were in hiding here.

Grady said he was expected to arrive here during the day.

POULTRY IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

Colonia. Farmers Making Good Start in This Billion Dollar Business.

Clemson College—Poultry raising in the South has made a tremendous rease in the past few years. With the advent of the boll weevil, the farmer has had to diversify in order to make ends meet, and one form of this diversification has been with chickens. In South Carolina many people seem to have gone "chicken crazy."

At the present time, the poultry business in the state may be classified into backyard, farm flock, and commercial groups. In the backyard flock groups are the breeders and fanciers and men and women who are raising only a few chickens. In the farm flocks, there are usually 25 to 100 birds in a flock and the main proposition is to obtain egg production and poultry meat for

In South Carolina, there are now state poultry association with a membership of over two hundred, six county poultry associations actively at work, and a number of community poultry associations. Hatching eggs, and baby chicks this year has been enormous. Practically every farmer is raising a flock of Perhaps few people realize that poultry is a billion dollar business. It is safe to say that more people are engaged in chicken raising in this form than in any other form of agriculture. Up to date, South Carolina is an important state along poultry products. Eggs and poultry are shipped into the state from neighboring states. But with the invariety that the people are showing, will probably be only a year or so until we ship eggs and poultry east out of the state instead of into the state.

Blease. It is plainly evident to the size of the crowd. We do not know

DENOUNCES BLEASE

Chester County Man Denounces Blease's Pardoning Record—Calls on the People to Vote for Law and Order—Says Chester County Man Who Murdered his Wife Paroled by Blease and Defeats the Law of the Land.

On next Tuesday, September 12th, the voters of South Carolina will decide as to whether Cole L. Blease will again be the Governor of our great commonwealth. To my mind this is a critical time for all South Carolina.

Do the people of South Carolina want a governor who recognizes over his petition that comes from his political supporters throughout the State asking that some criminal be pardoned? Do the people of South Carolina again want a man to occupy the Governor's chair, who, according to the records turned out more than 1,700 criminals from the State penitentiary in four years? Do the people of South Carolina want a Governor who sets aside the verdicts of our courts merely because a petition signed by many of his followers comes to his desk? Why not get a petition to present to our jurors before the trial asking that they do not convict the prisoners regardless of what the evidence might be? Why tax the people to have courts and then turn them in the men convicted out?

Are you going to listen to the arguments of a certain daily newspaper in South Carolina in behalf of Blease which was so disloyal to the United States during the World War that the government threatened and I believe did, refuse to let it circulate through the mails for a short length of time, until it promised to be disloyal to our country?

Are you going to listen to a newspaper and vote for Blease when said newspaper was against the men who made South Carolina a decent place in which to live during the days of '76?
At the close of the war between the States, during the period of Reconstruction, men organized for the purpose of protecting homes and women of the South. At the close of the Civil War the condition of the South was deplorable indeed. Business destroyed, farms gone to wreck, homes laid waste, many of the returning soldiers disabled and broken in health. To the general confusion was added a flood of adventurers from the North, called Carpet-Baggers, men imbued with passions of the lowest order, settling in the South for the purpose of controlling the Southern States by becoming leaders of the negro voters.
Men who had returned from the battlefields, and young men of the South organized to again place the ballot in the hands of the Southern white man and deliver the South from a bondage worse than death. Again, I say, are you going to support a candidate who was championed by a newspaper that was friendly to the Black and white Government, composed of Republican Carpet-Baggers, home-made Yankees, or Scalwags, and ignorant and brutal negroes?

Are you going to vote for a man who in his speech before a negro college in Columbia, arraigned the Democratic party of South Carolina, presided over by one of the worst negro Republicans in the South? A negro reporter for the Samaritan, a negro newspaper of Columbia, reported in the paper that Mr.
Blease said he would trust any white girl under this negro's teaching. Mr. Blease has never to my knowledge, publicly denied this statement.

Do the people of South Carolina want a man in the Governor's office who indiscriminately turns criminals loose on the people of South Carolina and other States?

At the fall term of court for Chester county during the year 1899 one Samuel W. Reep was convicted of having killed his wife about four-thirty o'clock on the morning of August 17th, 1899. He was tried before twelve Chester county men, who rendered a verdict of guilty with recommendation to mercy, and Judge Buchanan sentenced Reep to life imprisonment at hard labor. Members of the jury stated that 11 of them were for hanging Reep, but one juror wanted to acquit. Reep, not withstanding what the other men considered sufficient evidence to send a white man to the gallows. There was a cause for one juror wanting to acquit the prisoner, but I will not state it here, but I will state that it was on account of a certain relationship to a certain party connected in a way with the crime. The eleven jurors who were for hanging finally compromised with the jury and the verdict of murder, with recommendation to mercy, was rendered.

On December 23rd, 1911 Governor Blease paroled Reep after he had only served twelve years in the penitentiary for killing his wife; the woman he had sworn to love and cherish and protect. She was shot in the head with a rifle and when her body was lowered into the earth to await the call of her Master, the life of an unborn babe also went with her. She left a family of children and the evidence indicated that a little tot was lying in her arms when her husband fired the shot that ended her earthly existence. A note was found which the murderous husband claimed that she had left and in which she told of her proposing to take her life. It was proven that she did not write the note and that it was Reep's own handwriting.
Witnesses testified that he had beaten his wife at various times.
A witness from the West testified that he had been accused of killing his other wife. Think of a man taking the life of his own wife; the mother of his children and the mother of an unborn babe; and only being required to serve 12 years. Can those criminally inclined in the State of South Carolina be expected to properly respect the laws of the land when murderers are paroled and pardoned? Is your life or the life of your family safe when a pardoning Governor presides in the State? Something tells me that the face of this woman who went to her untimely grave appears before Reep every day. Something tells me that Almighty God is punishing a man who has defeated the laws of justice. Something tells me that every time Sam Reep looks across the foot of a bed he sees the face and form of a woman, with blood oozing from her head; he sees the little hands of an unborn-babe. Maybe a man can defeat the laws of the land but an all wise Father requires a life for a life. Again I say, are the sons of the men who fought for the freedom of America; the men who were the gray and the men who were the red-shirts going to vote for a man for Governor who talks down the principals that we shed our blood to save? Don't you think that those criminally inclined will commit crimes when they think they have a friend in the Governor's chair? Is it possible that a man can murder his fellowman or his own help-mate and evade the sentence of twelve men, who give him the benefit of the doubt?

Men and women of Chester county I trust that you will cast your ballot next Tuesday against the man, who by the stroke of his pen set aside the verdicts of our own neighbors; who has denounced the Democratic party of South Carolina and who snapped his fingers in the face of Woodrow Wilson, one of the greatest presidents of our country.

"W" A 76 Democrat.

DRY AGENT SHOOTS AND KILLS MAN

Orlando, Fla., Sept. 4.—Harry Givens, 30, was shot by Lloyd J. Gay, a federal prohibition agent here shortly after nine o'clock tonight.
Givens died, a few minutes afterwards.

A coroner's jury after hearing Gay and his two associates, F. J.
Rynals and J. E. Blodgett, ordered all three men held as material witnesses pending further investigation by the jury tomorrow.

Gay asserted he killed Givens in self defense. He bought a quantity of whiskey from the man, he said, and then made known his identity.
He could not identify Givens as exclaiming, "You are the very man I am looking for," and asserted that Givens then grabbed a gun from one of the other agents. Gay shot first, and then piercing the shoulder and a second cutting an artery.

"THE STORM" COST
FORTUNE TO FILM

The Feather River Canyon is a beautiful spot of California, that is not well known to the public.

Trails leading into it are practically impassable much of the time. It has not yet become a rendezvous for motoring tourists, although it contains scenery equal to any valley of its type in the western part of the United States. It is a picturesque wilderness.

It cost a small fortune to take the Universal unit making "The Storm" —Langdon McCormick's famous play—into the heart of the Feather River district. All the mechanical equipment and props, several big trucks, and a lot of men, had to be over part of the trail, and on a rough stream and even carried piecemeal on mules' backs.

"The Storm" brings the Republic in a starring role to the Feather River at Great Falls next Thursday and Friday. It is a Universal Jewel special production with a cast of stellar importance in support of Peters.

Matt Moore and Virginia Valli are the other two figures of a unique triangle in which "Peters" impersonates an honest, primitive woodman. Joan Swickard, Frank Manning and Gordon McGee handle lesser roles.

Homes Needed

Chester is in need of homes. It is stated from an authoritative source that several families who have recently wanted to come to Chester have been forced to go elsewhere on account of an insufficient number of homes in Chester.

Our city will never grow unless homes are built for people to live in. Tent is not good for while but a tent is not a home. We venture the assertion that Chester could use twenty or twenty-five new houses at the present time without over-supplying the demand.

Doubtless some people are putting off building waiting for building material to reduce. The reduction in the prices of building material from the high mark has been much greater than most of other commodities, and we are frank to say that we can see no reason for no reason for a reduction in building material in the near future. In fact the market has a tendency to advance.

You cannot buy clothing at pre-war prices. You cannot buy shoes at pre-war prices. In fact there are very few things you can buy at pre-war prices, so why expect lumber at pre-war prices. Frankly we fail to see anything to indicate that building materials will ever sell at pre-war prices again. Labor is higher and the freight rates have been doubled in many instances and until these things reach a pre-war basis lumber will continue to sell above pre-war prices.

Let us have the plans for your new home and give you an estimate of the cost of the building material—you will be surprised at the low cost we can offer you on the material.

WELL KNOWN LEGISLATOR DIED IN MARION TUESDAY

Marion, Sept. 5.—Eddings Thomas Hughes, chairman of the ways and means committee of the South Carolina house of representatives, was found dead in his home here tonight. A coroner's jury found that he "came to his death from causes not known to the jury, but with no evidence of foul play." Mr. Hughes had been in ill health for six months or more and several months ago suffered a severe attack while in Columbia.

Members of Mr. Hughes' family are at their summer home at Murrell's Inlet and he had spent the week-end with them there, returning to Marion this morning shortly before noon. He transacted some business at his office and then went to his home. In the absence of his family he had been taking meals at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Carmichael, who lives across the street from the Hughes home, and she it was who discovered the body, lying fully dressed across a bed, when she went to the house tonight about 7 o'clock. Death is believed to have resulted from an attack of apoplexy.

THE CASE OF THE C. & N.W.

The operation of the "National agreement" policy has excellent illustration in the case of the Carolina & North-Western Railroad Company, whose line runs from Chester to Lenoir and Edgemont. Its management has issued no edict against the shopmen. The road is a local line, and has been disconnected with the quarrels of the brotherhood, yet when Mr. Ellis, head of the labor union in this State, was called into conference at Hickory in the possible prospect of permitting the C. & N.W. men to return to the shops, he maintained that this could not be done until a National agreement is made. By this time the fact must have dawned upon the strikers, as well as upon the public, that a National agreement is further than ever from the possible, because of the standing out in independence of the Pennsylvania and Eastern lines. Inclusion of these railroads is impossible, and that puts the National agreement proposition out of the question. The management of this little railroad will now proceed to do what it might have done weeks ago—open its shops with legitimated labor.—Charlotte Observer.

AN ATROCIOUS TAX.

Federal collections from income and war profits taxes in 1922 are upwards of one billion dollars, less than they were in 1921. This statement is the wall that comes out of the treasury, but the fact is that anyone with average intelligence. Why shouldn't it be less? asks the Philadelphia Inquirer, rising to a point of order, to explain that under the present taxing system is should and probably will decrease.

Which is to say that the income tax law of today is about the most atrocious measure ever put through Congress. During the war any sort of tax that would help raise money was possibly justified. We needed money and a great deal of money at that. And so Congress, without any thought whatever, except that of piling up a huge revenue, plunged headlong into a system that produced immediate results.

But now, A government can go into what amounts to confiscation and gather in the millions of hand, but it cannot repeat. The goose that laid the golden egg is dead. Nothing on earth can restore life to the old goose. Rob a man's pocket rifle a business house's safe, and the chances are that the telephone will pretty soon ring in the sheriff's office. The end is not far away.

In a matter of the citizens of the United States were and are robbed. Their incomes which were invested in industry and in development were taken from them. What incentive was there to put capital into enterprises—enterprises which kept men at work when the bulk of the profit was seized? There was just none whatever. And so the wise man bought government and municipal and State bonds and thereby loaded up his capital. Since these bonds are not taxable, he took his interest out of them and the government got nothing.

One of these days there will be a change. When Congressional intelligence reaches the point where it is willing to drop theory and accept experience as a teacher, it will ask themselves the tax of Canada, and end the confiscation of income. When it does this, there will be no billion-dollar deficiencies—Columbia State.

He added that their places were held open for five weeks after they struck, but that the road could wait no longer and that they should now go to work to support their families.
